

Evidence Tracking System

Identity Recode Planner

Purpose

To record observable proof that identity-aligned behavior is happening in real life, not only in intention or self-description.

Instructions

- 1. Log one meaningful piece of evidence per day.
- 2. Use concrete facts only.
- 3. Do not write opinions unless they are tied to observable behavior.
- 4. Treat this as a record of proof, not a journal of mood.
- 5. Review every 7 days.

Section 1: Daily Action Log

Date:

[]

Planned action:

Action completed (Yes/No):

[]

If yes, what was done?

If no, what prevented it?

Time started: _____ Time finished: _____

Quality of completion (1-10):

[]

Section 2: Behavioral Evidence Record

For each item, write one concrete example:

1. Evidence of self-trust:

2. Evidence of commitment consistency:

3. Evidence of emotional regulation:

4. Evidence of decision quality:

5. Evidence of environmental discipline:

6. Evidence of value congruence:

7. Evidence of agency:

8. Evidence of identity alignment:

Evidence Strength Score (1-10): []

Section 3: Consistency Analysis

1. I completed what I planned most days: []
2. I returned after missed days: []
3. My actions became more regular over time: []
4. I needed less effort to stay on track: []
5. I behaved more like the identity I chose: []
6. I showed up even when motivation was low: []
7. I tracked my behavior honestly: []
8. I can trust my consistency more than before: []

Consistency Score (average): []

Section 4: Transformation Milestones

Mark the milestone when it happens:

- [] First completed action
- [] First full week of consistency
- [] First recovery after a lapse
- [] First visible identity-aligned decision
- [] First environmental improvement
- [] First emotional regulation win
- [] First moment of self-trust
- [] First week with no major avoidance pattern

Which milestone mattered most to me?

Section 5: Identity Implication

What is the evidence teaching me about who I am becoming?

What identity is being strengthened by these actions?

What old identity is losing power?

What conclusion can I now make with confidence?

Section 6: Weekly Review

1. What was the strongest evidence this week?

2. What was the weakest area this week?

3. What pattern do I see in my follow-through?

4. What adjustment should I make next week?

5. What evidence would I need to see to feel more confident?

Weekly Summary Statement: This week I proved that...
